The Elm Collection - 200 years in the making

It might sound crazy, but this range took almost 200 years to complete. We're an extremely fussy bunch, and felt we needed a little extra time to pull it all together. Our designer, Steve, spent hours working out the right style, balance and detail. Then Sunny, our furniture maker, took his sweet time joining, building and smoothing each piece.

All in all, from design to delivery, it took us a couple of months to produce, which leaves us with over 199 years to explain. That's where the Elm comes in. It's not just any ordinary Elm - it's from a far-flung village in China. Torn from ancient buildings, windows and frames, it's almost 200 years old. If you take a closer look, you'll see signs of its previous life. You'll see every piece has its own distinct character, grain and markings. They're a beautiful reminder that extraordinary things require time and care to create. Sure, it may have taken us 200 years to get this range to you. But we think it was worth the wait.
