

Sustainable Wellness Centre for the Community

After 18 months of planning, Kimberlie Furness of Lotus Chiropractic is delighted to announce the approval has been granted for her new Practice at 117 Ranelagh Drive.

Lotus has been operating since 2003, in the heart of the retail area of the village and has outgrown the current building. They are hoping to start on site September/ October with completion in June/July 2010.

The new premises will be the culmination of a 12 year dream to have a fully sustainable purpose-built healing centre, bringing together different types of natural healthcare practitioners under one roof. Then emphasis will be on light, space and tranquillity in a beautiful landscaped organic building, helping individuals and families reach their full health potentials.

The new building will be 2.5 times larger than the existing and will incorporate 12 parking spaces on site. The aim is to make the practice as environmentally friendly as possible, including sustainable building materials such as plantation timber, rammed earth, straw bale and planted rooves. Other technologies will include natural heating and cooling, solar power, water recycling, non toxic finishes and efficient lighting.

Lotus are hoping to work with one of the local schools in creating a sustainability model that can be observed and researched over the next 25 years, in what is becoming a very important topic in our future lives. This will be a very exciting project and the first of its kind in the village and they are hoping to inspire the community to work towards a more sustainable future.

An Exciting Move for Sarah Doyle

In early July Sarah Doyle Hair by Design made an exciting move to their beautiful new location in Mt Eliza Way, right next to the post office.

"We are so happy with the relaxed and inviting vibe we have created in our new salon, and we are so very thankful to our amazing team of experts. Special thanks to Fiona and Darren, their support made it such an easy transition - the best designer in the world teamed with the most precise and talented builder; to Jimmy Lardner for your top negotiating skills, and to Val and Robert Doyle, my Mum and Dad and my children Isla and Liam for being my inspiration.

Sarah believes she has collected her best artistic team ever for the launch of a brand new era @ Hair By Design. "Every great success in life involves a team of people working towards the same goal with a passion and integrity. In my 18 years of business I have met a handful of truly talented hairdressers, lots of good ones, but very few who are real artists. I am very fortunate to have such individuals working with me in our new creative space. Each of them possess expression, creativity, artistic flair, natural warmth and advance levels of delivering client expectation. I am so proud to call these experts 'My Team'. Positive hairdressers have positive outcomes 100% of the time."
