

Luduco Living – A Passion For Design

From London and Qatar, via India and Kuala Lumpur, Jeremy Brooks' journey to the Mornington Peninsula has been a long and varied one. Jeremy and his wife Lisa own Luduco Living, located in the Peninsula Lifestyle Centre in Mornington, and to say that Jeremy brings a wealth of experience to the business is to understate the matter somewhat.

Luduco Living specialise in high quality, custom made furniture for living and dining areas, as well as interior design consultations where required. They are committed to working with the client to design furniture which fits into and complements their living space while answering all their needs.

Jeremy says 'we just don't like to say no to customers if we can find a way of achieving what they want'. So if it's an extra long, extra deep sofa with custom cushions, or a recycled timber cabinet with built in wine racks, Luduco will do what they can to make it happen. They also choose to use suppliers who work within a 30-40km radius of the business, which has the double benefit of not only supporting local business but also of allowing the customer almost complete flexibility.

They're always looking for new suppliers and enjoy the chance to work with craftspeople who share their passion for fine design and high quality materials. When it comes to selecting finishes for the sofas, chairs, ottomans and custom cushions on offer, there are 10,000 different fabrics & leathers to choose from, both nationally and internationally sourced, so you are sure to find something that suits. The timbers used by Luduco are mostly Australian native woods, including recycled redgum, messmate & oregon.

Customer service, as you would expect, operates to the same level of high quality. As Jeremy puts it 'post service is as important as pre service and we believe in nurturing the customer. That doesn't stop when the goods are delivered.' And despite the high level of service and design, prices are competitive when compared with standard furnishings – not bad when you consider that you will be getting something designed exclusively to suit your needs.

While Luduco Living is a relatively new establishment (only 18 months old), Jeremy's 35 years in the high end furnishing industry mean that he understands the business well. As mentioned, he has worked across the world and for several different companies including Laura Ashley, for whom he set up the Hong Kong buying office and Maples of London, which led to a 2 year stint in Qatar providing furnishings for the royal family there. So how did he end up here?

Well, a fateful last minute booking on a flight to Asia led to him sitting next to his future wife on the plane – he disembarked in Kuala Lumpur, she carried on to Melbourne, but the spark had been lit and they stayed in contact, eventually marrying in 2002 and ending up here on the Peninsula.

This is a story which really does have it all – romance, travel, adventure and a really comfy piece of furniture to complement your home, Luduco Living is the place for you.

Luduco Living is located at the Peninsula Lifestyle Centre, 1128-1132 Nepean Highway, Mornington Ph: 5973 4899.
